ROCKY CELEBRATES 10th YEAR!

Twentieth Century Fox has announced that this weekend, not Halloween weekend, is the 10th anniversary of the Rocky Horror Picture Show. Unfortunately, we did not receive word here until last weekend. Reportedly, extra advertising is going out nation-wide. We hope the effort pays off for us here in Rhode Island.

Wherever you want to landmark the show's 10th year, there can be no debate that the RHPS has truly made movie history in lasting so long in the capacity it has. Other movies have been popular for different reasons, but none have been followed with such devotion by so many people for so long. Indeed, RHPS has also been the most personal movie ever in that the real story taking place has always been in the audience and cast. The happenings are different every night, producing stories about you that will always be remembered.

For some of us, the show goes way back. The Rhode Island history of the show is filled with so many twists and turns that it would take a book (that gives me an idea) to account for it all. For others, the show is a new thing. But for all, we hope it continues to be a source of fun and unique entertainment for more time to come.

Ten years. Who would have thought.

Failed Contest

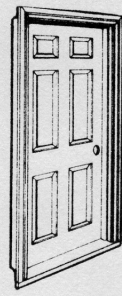

RR

One never likes to admit to their flops in life, but we definitely must have had one with our trivia contest last month. Not one person entered the contest, which is a shame if one person had, they would have won the contest by default. So, we put the 2 free tickets back into the treasure chest and hope that the door prize contests draw more interest.

And now, what you all obviously have not been waiting for, the answers from the issue # 20 contest: RHODE ISLAND ROCKY, 18 Wychwood Place, Johnston, RI 02919

- 1. FALSE. The title role, Dr. Frankenstein, was played by Colin Clive. Karloff was the monster.
2. It was KING KONG. The words were spoken after the giant ape was shot down from the Empire State Building.
3. YES. In a 1933 version of H.G. Wells' 'Island of Dr. Moreau,' re-titled 'Island of Lost Souls.'
4. PETER LORRE.
5. BELA LUGOSI in 'Dracula.'
6. COUND ALUCARD. That's Dracula spelled backwards.
7. This time it's TRUE. Karloff was the resurrected Pharaoh who killed to stay 'alive'.
8. EDWARD VAN SLOAN.
9. He became 'THE WOLF MAN.'
10. The fellow with the fur, teeth and funny neck was LON CHANEY JR.

Door Prizes

In lieu of the failure of the trivia contest to produce any interest in a contest, a new approach is being taken at the CTC. It is the simplest of all contests - the door prize.

When you walk in, make sure you keep your ticket stub. At 12:00, one ticket will be drawn each night. The prize is a free pass to the RHPS at the CTC. Is that easy or what.

It becomes more important than ever to get to the show before midnight to be eligible. But you don't have to do a thing. No trivia. No brains. Nothing. Daaaaa...even you over there can win! RR

Halloween

Our Halloween show is still on. 10th anniversary or not, we WILL have a show here at 10:00 Thursday, Oct. 31. Be there in costume. It would be a good night to show the cast your RHPS costumes too. We have gotten people for the cast before in such ways. So, RHPS-costume or some other costume, show us your best. Cameras will be flashing! RR
