

WHAT IF . . . ? !

What if Janet did not go to the castle with Brad?

It could have happened that way. It was raining and Janet, being of delicate nature, may have chosen Brad's advice to stay in the car.

Due to the shining of the light atop the Frankenstein place, Brad probably would have still found the castle alone even without Janet. Riff Raff would still have answered the door and let Brad in. Without Janet there, we would have been spared Magenta's lines about being lucky, but, most assuredly, nothing would have stopped the Time Warp. Brad would have stood there stuned. Frank's entrance would have also stuned Brad as it did in the movie. Brad would have also gone along with being undressed before he went up to the lab.

It is then that things would begin to change. Brad begins to argue in the elevator that this is getting ridiculous. Without Janet to restrain him as he takes off his glasses in his Superman act, Brad would grab Frank to further his point about only wanting to use a phone. Riff Raff, Magenta, and Columbia would be forced to pull Brad away from a preturbed, but still mocking Frank. Frank goes on to say "What a perfect specimen of manhood . . . so brutal!"

Brad, temporarily restrained, watches, with amazement, the miraculous birth of the creation called Rocky Horror.

Susan Sarandon and her child:

When Eddy bursts onto the scene, causing mass confusion, Brad decides the "time is right" and pulls out the "aces." He makes a run to gain his freedom and succeeds in getting outside. Alarms are sounded! Riff races to the monitor! Brad, frantically trying to put distance between himself and the castle, suddenly comes face-to-face with 2 people- Janet and Dr. Scott!

Be here next week for the thrilling conclusion - WHAT THEN?!!!

CRIME PLAYS

The ever-scheming Parker Brothers, whose murder board game Clue first put Colonel Mustard in the Billiard Room over 30 years ago, have dreamed up an even more fiendish video version for the MTV generation: the Clue VCR Mystery Game, about $40. . . . Meanwhile, in a grand Gothic mansion somewhere on the Eastern seaboard, the Colonel, Miss Scarlet et al. come to life on the big screen in Paramount's Clue, left. Those who stand to make a killing include Madeline Kahn and Tim (Amadeus) Curry. Look for it soon.

Words to the music:

I Can Make You a Man

A weakling, Weighing 98 pounds, Will get sand in his face, When kicked to the ground.

But soon in the gym, With a determined chin, The sweat from his pores, As he works for his cause,

Will make him glisten, And gleam. And with massage, And just a little bit of steam,

He'll be pink and quite clean. He'll be a strong man! Oh, honey! But the wrong man!

He'll eat nutritious high protein, And swallow raw eggs. Try to build up his shoulders, His chest, arms and legs.

Such an effort, If he only knew of my plan! In just seven days, I can make you a man!

He'll do press ups and chin ups. Do the snatch, clean and jerk. He thinks dynamic tension, Must be hard work.

Such strenuous living, I just don't understand, When in just seven days, I can make you a man!
