What if the sequel to RHPS, "Rocky Horror Shows His Heels", would have gone into production? It most likely would have gone like this:

Brad Majors and Janet Weiss get married as planned. Black clouds linger over the empty space where the castle once stood. Electrical charges bring Rocky Horror back to life. Rocky instinctively carried Frank's decomposed body to Dr. Everett Scott and Brad. Janet is pregnant and about to give birth. Brad has to face the fact that the child will not, cannot, be his. Then whose child would it be Rocky's or Frank's? Riff Raff and Magenta returned to their home planet Transexual and are given a new mission. It also seems that none have gotten over the effects of the floor show, they carry a desire for more of Frank's...forbidden fruit. How would this adventure end? We may never know!

Box: Donna Boudreau.

Ans: What about her? Who is she? Somebody writes a name down and that's it.

Box: More water fights allowed. - Gil

Ans: See upcoming article on audience poll.

Box: Get a real cast.

Ans: Join the cast and bestow us with thou fabulous talent (As soon as you get over your drinking problem).

Box: Good job!

Ans: Thanx.

Box: A mass suicide of cast and theatergoers following the show.

Ans: Demonstrate for us please.

Hopefully, the other 96% of the audience understands that it's not nice to get shot at when you're blinded by the spotlight, or that it's not nice for one audience member to throw or squirt soda at another audience member. Be just and fear not.

i.e. - Go nuts but don't hurt. RR

Box: Have a party.

Ans: What do you call this?
