LIBERTY CHANGES DONE

The long awaited changes to the Statue of Liberty have been completed and revealed to the RIR. Our artist's rendition (to the right) shows us the more up-to-date image given to the big girl. While some outsiders may not approve, we here at the RIR commend the new look of Lady Liberty. She now stands for what America should stand for. rr

A Rocky Horror

by Lisa Hindle

The Cumberland Twin Cinemas just had a celebration this past April. The Rocky Horror Picture Show has been shown there every weekend for one full year. It is a midnight showing on both Friday and Saturday nights.

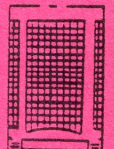

Many people do not understand the show and what happens during it. Like any other movie a film is viewed on the screen; however, in front of the theater is a live cast performing for the audience exactly what is occurring on the screen. This cast is strictly voluntary and is always searching for new volunteers to help add variety to the show. The cast is supported by donations which pay for costumes, props, and lighting.

During the movie, a person finds himself being drenched by squirt guns during the rain scenes, yelling out lines which come naturally after attending the show a few times, and throwing toilet paper in the air when a character yells, "Great SCOTT!"

The experience of the RMPS can be an exciting event as long as one understands one small requirement; do not try to pay attention to the movie the way you would a regular movie. Just let loose and join in the fun otherwise you may never know what Rocky Horror is all about.

*CAST MEMBERS, LIGHT PEOPLE.

We are still in need. A lot. All parts. Not looking for perfection, just people who will try. It's easier than you think. See cast after show.

*NEXT WEEK.

Another letter. This one blasts the audience...and the cast.

*COCAINE. Forget about morals. But only a jerk would take Cocaine. RR
