

TOGA WEEKEND

The dictionary defines toga as "a loose one-piece garment worn in public by citizens of ancient Rome." What it fails to add about the word is that it is perhaps the loudest single-word chant in the Rocky Horror Picture Show.

We celebrate another first at the CTC this weekend - TOGA Weekend. The audience and cast shall wear the ancient garp of the Romans. We hope for a resounding chant at the momment Frank announces that "formal dress is optional" for dinner.

There's not much more to say about it. Just have a good time. And keep your piece on.

THANKS FOR NOTHING

Recently, Bryant College, the closest college to CTC, showed the RHPS on a Friday night for a one-night showing. The RI RHPS Cast, for the past two years, has offered to do the show there. And, for the 2nd year in a row, we were turned down.

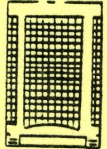

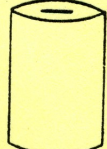

Of course, everyone knows it's their right to not have a cast there. It doesn't matter that they are the only theatre or school to ever say no to our offer. But the frustrating part of it to me is - WHO is saying no. It's not the students. It's not the teachers. It's not even the President of the school who's saying NO.

Last year, I dealt with the problem. I ended up learning that the people to speak to were from something called the Student Affairs committee. They basically wouldn't let me get to first base. It's very frustrating indeed to deal with people from committees on the phone. They are on the other end, they won't let you speak to anyone in power above them, there's nothing you can really do about it, and they know it. They told me they didn't want any OUTSIDERS on campus and that's the end of that. Click.

This year, another cast member who's close relative works at Bryant gave it a try. Zipo. They don't want that kind of people coming in. Hmmm.

I explained to them who I am, where I come from, and what kind of person I am. I told them why it would be so special to me to have our cast to do the show there. Not good enough. Still an outsider. Still not the right kind of people. So, how do you explain ... me.

LAST WEEK AT CTC

	 ATTENDANCE	 COLLECTIONS	 PRIZES
FRI	65	$ 6.74	Mike Amarello
SAT	69	$ 5.06	Jodie Cash

QUESTIONS OR COMMENTS? WRITE :
R. I. ROCKY, 100 LYMAN AVE,
No. Prov., RI 02911

- Roy Rossi, Bryant class of '80.