

Box Time

It's been a few month's since our last issue of BOX TALK. We get a few new cards in the suggestion box each week and we've been saving them up. Now it's time to spend them.

BOX: I think your movie is acid.
ANS: Far out, man.

BOX: Mosha moi
ANS: Our French translator could only find "moi" in the dictionary, which means "me." This person obviously wants us to do something to her.-

BOX: Have a party - "The Phantom"
ANS: That guy's is at it again about having a party. It's starting to get on my nerves, just a little.

BOX: Have the cast appear nude.
ANS: You'll be soorryy.

BOX: More Pop Tarts at the snack bar - Pop Tarts man
ANS: Would you settle for stale toast?

BOX: Put RHPS ads in flyers on school bullentin boards - Red.
ANS: Some people have done this and anyone else who can do this at their school please let us give you some flyers.

BOX: Let girls search the guys.
ANS: But then who'd we get to watch the movie?

BOX: No virgins can win door prizes.
ANS: What's that say for beginner's luck?

BOX: Let's do the Pop Tart again.

ANS: No. Get out of here! Go do it on the roof, by yourself.

BOX: Don't loose any more good cast members - Genuinely Concerned

ANS: We try not to, but some things just don't work out no matter how you want to look at them. We all love our individuality, but the cast is a group first. A group of human beings. But just as things look a little dry, along come good new cast members, some old ones improve, and other good ones stay.

It doesn't matter what anyone says. As long as the heart beats, we continue forward. Everyone got that?

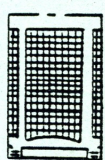

BOX: Please do the dinner scene as it is in the movie.

ANS: A divided issue. You'll usually see the scene as it's done in the movie, but there will be variations some nights.

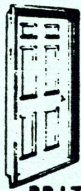

BOX: Have a party - The Phantom

ANS: Again? That's it!! Somehow I'm going to figure out who you are. And when I do, I'm gonna RR
