

MINI-SERIES
Scheduled

As of this writing, the Boston Red Sox have just captured the American League pennant by defeating the California Angels, 4 games to 3. This means that they will play the Mets in the World Series. This is the Red Sox first World Series since 1975, the year that Rocky Horror became the movie.

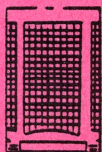

Due to the above fore-mentioned twist of fate between the Red Sox and Rocky Horror that has historians adding pages to the books, a special 3-game mini-series has been scheduled between the Sox and the Rhode Island RHPS Cast. Game # 1 will be held right here at the CTC parking lot after the show Friday night. As the Sox return home from New York Monday, the Cast travels north to Boston's Fenway Park for game # 2. If the series is split 1-1 after 2 games, the 3rd and deciding game will be held here again next Friday at CTC.

Admission will be $5 to watch (separate from the RHPS movie admission). We are splitting the money 50-50 with the Boston Red Sox Organization. Our half will go into the cast treasury. For the game(s) held at the CTC parking lot, we urgently request that all patrons clear their cars out ASAP after Rocky Horror. Park in the back. One set of bathrooms will be kept open in the CTC to accomodate fans.

There is much speculation about who will win the series. It's hard to tell who's got the edge between the Cast and Sox. A lot can happen in a short series. But both sides really win, because both sides have stated that none of the proceeds will go to charity.

Oh, by the way if anyone cares, Tim Curry asked if he could throw out the first ball before game 1. We voted, 5 to 4, to let him do it. What the heck, why not.

HALLOWEEN

Halloween is just 2 weeks away, and it's on a Friday!!! See next weeks RIR (#79) to learn about what the cast will do and about an audience costume contest... I think you'd better start showing up regularly around here.
