Halloween Party Contest

Next Friday is Halloween! For the first time in 6 years, the Rocky Horror holiday will fall on a weekend night. We are planing a very special night for the audience and hope you bring all your friends.

For the audience, there will be a COSTUME CONTEST. The rules will be different than last year. For openers, people dressed as Rocky Horror characters will not be eligible to win. While we will appreciate people dressed as such, the judging of someone dressed as Frank N Furter vs. someone coming as the weirwolf just doesn't seem fair. The other change from last year will be in the judging. This year, instead of audience applause, a group of judges will vote instead. This will offset any possibility of popularity contests.

There will be 2 PRIZES awarded to the top 2 finishers. First place will be $20.00. Second place will be $10.00. No items or articles, people, just MONEY.

The cast will not appear as you would usually expect them either. We will be dressed up in our own Halloween versions of our parts. We havn't quite figured that out yet, so be here for the surprize.

An Extra Hour's Sleep

What's always so special about the Saturday before Halloween is a special treat for Rocky Horror enthusiasts called Daylight Savings, specifically called the end of it. What this means is that when you get home from the show Saturday night, set your clocks BACK one hour and enjoy an extra hour's sleep Sunday morning.

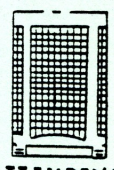

The history of Daylight Savings Time goes back 11 years ago when the movie just came out. The government noticed that in the summer people were getting to the show too late due to the warmer weather and summer activities. Obviously something had to be done about this so they implemented the turning forward of the clock at the begining of the summer. Now, at the end of the warm season, the clock is turned back to give Rocky fans an extra hour of darkness after the show to go out and do whatever it is they do.

Most people didn't give us a chance, but the RI RHPS Cast swept their mini-series with the Boston Red Sox 2 games to none. Both games were won on forfeits as the Sox chickened out and didn't show up at the CTC parking lot last Friday night. We ventured up the on Monday but the Mets were already using the field for batting practice. Not our fault. Next, the RI RHPS Cast looks to enter a boat in the Americas Cup.
