"TRUE SUPER HEROES"

Ray Rap

RP: How much trouble did you go through to get the movie at this cinema?
 BA: Not a lot. Just a lot of waiting.
 RP: A lot of other cinemas wanted it?
 BA: Yes, there's a long waiting list.
 RP: What do you think of the show in general?
 BA: We like.
 RP: Any parts better than others?
 BA: I like Frank.
 RP: What is it that you dislike about the show?
 BA: I don't dislike anything about the show.
 RP: How about the audience getting too wild in your cinema?
 BA: On the whole, they're a good crowd.
 RP: Would you ever consider doing a part in the show?
 BA: Not me. An actor I'm not.
 RP: Do you plan to keep the show here a while?
 BA: We'll keep the show as long as the people keep coming.
 PA: We'll keep it till we break all records! I'd like to see that.

RP: What would you change about the show if you could?
 PA: I'd like the audience to behave like people who are more into the show, who do and want to have a good time rather than just wanting to soak people. I'd like to see a group that really enjoyed the show and did what they were suppose to do at the right time. A little less rowdyism.
 RP: How many other cinemas were trying to get the show?
 PA: I don't know. We were trying to get it and they didn't beleave in a rural-country town could do anything with Rocky Horror.
 RP: Well, you made fools out of them.
 PA: Yeah, we fooled them all.
 RP: So, you look forward to showing the movie every week?
 PA: I like it. Sometimes you get a little tired, but for the most part it's trouble free. It's a welcome change. It's not like rock shows where some people try to take down the theatre.
 RP: Well, you are true Super Heroes. Without you two, we wouldn't have a home.
