

Darkness has Conquered

~by Adam Sargis

"Superheros" and "Science fiction, double feature" reprise are two songs on the motion picture soundtrack album that you may not have seen on your local silver screen. In Rocky's original 1975 American release to theatres, Science fiction, double feature reprise had been edited out, however, Superheros remained. The european version (in Dolby sound á la star wars) ends as follows: The castle blasts off, Brad and Janet are left crawling on the planet's face and sing "Superheros" amid clouds of smoke, they spin, the narrator pronounces them "lost in space and meaning", a chorus echos "and meaning", the door closes and Riff-Raff/O'Brien sings "Science fiction, Double feature" reprise over the ending credits (without visuals), the credits fade and you hear the transylvanian jam session as you walk or dance out of the theatre.

As the film is now, it is cut, supposedly to have an upbeat ending, with the omission of 3 songs! Just so you know what you're missing 20th Century Fox has confiscated prints containing "Superheros" by Lou Adlers decree and replaced them with his upbeat version. I don't know about you - but I would rather be "depressed" by the original version, than let down softly.

SUGGESTION BOX!

One of the most important ways for the cast to give you the best show possible is for us to know what you would like to see more of. We are in a new home and we could use some new ideas from our new fans in the Warwick area. So what better way to do it than with a suggestion box? So from now on, there will be a silver box in the lobby where you can write anything, anything, ANYTHING!!! You can criticize, complement, suggest, complain comment, praise, or give ideas! If you have a personal problem, feel free to put it on paper and dump it in and I shall employ my knowledge and experience and offer you advice like Dear Abby. Once we get a good amount of suggestions we will print them in the Rhode Island Rocky newsletter which you are now reading. You can say anything, smart or dumb and it doesn't have to do only with The Rocky Horror Picture Show. Needless to say, if it is anything too raunchy, (Remember we want to keep an "R" rating) we will have to edit it, but it will get the point across. Every suggestion will get a response from me. A pencil and some paper will be left for your convenience. And please don't steal the pencil. If you must steal something, take something worth-while, like your mother's toe-cheese.
