

EXCITEMENT

The elusive spark that we are always trying to generate at the RHPS in the Meadowbrook is excitement. We want to make this show as exciting as possible for the audience through the use of events, contests, pre-shows, casting, props, ect. What we want to do is to find out what would make you come back to the show more often? What would excite you enough to WANT to be here?

I'd really like to hear some serious ideas on what you think? I don't need to hear any more "Do the show in the nude" jokes. Use the back of this paper to tell me what YOU, not others, would add to this show. Or, tell me what YOU feel takes AWAY from the show. Be honest and open with your remarks.

I would like to hear especially from people who haven't ever written before. You can either hand your remarks in to the people behind the concession stand or send your remarks to the address below. Thank You. RR

Thursday 13

Yes, girls, it's that exotic sport, men's tennis today at 3:30 p.m. We go after Suffolk University.

If seeing men in shorts doesn't do it for you, then try the official Anchor (and Office of Residential Life and Housing) sponsored Pizza Tasting Contest. Remember, FREE PIZZA to all the judges (and that means you!). At 3:30 in the Coffeeground.

Be aware of transvestites in black leather. That's the theme of the culturally rich film, The Rocky Horror Picture Show. It's at 9 p.m. (too early) and midnight. Live actors will be there to receive the assorted props being pitched at them by the audience. It's only $1. Wear your raincoat and pity the clean up crew.

Rules are rules

I was reading the Anchor for Tuesday, April 11 and reading What's Happening for Thursday the 13th, the Rocky Horror Picture Show. The sentence reads, "Live actors will be there to receive the assorted props being pitched at them by the audience." There is no way you can throw stuff at the cast. That's part of the rules that they have at their theatre. Do not let anyone throw anything at the cast or they'll be kicked out! It's just as simple as that. It's misleading, your printing that. I just wanted to say that I don't think it's right. Well, maybe you didn't know the rules, so...
