

Phantasia & Toilets Produce Big Weekend

For those of you who missed the RHPS, you missed a good weekend. Saturday's crowd was the 4th largest ever at the Meadowbrook, and the largest since October 31, 1987. You just never know when something big is going to happen around here.

Saturday's large crowd may have been due to 2 factors. One was the mini-concert put on by the rock group Phantasia before the show. Many people filled the front rows of the theatre. (Why don't they sit there for Rocky?)

The other factor may have been the bathroom facility display put on by owner Eric Bilodeau. Eric, in the true spirit of Rocky, brought out 2 toilet bowls, 2 toilet tanks, and a bathroom sink. They were on display for all to see in the front of the theatre. Word got out after Friday night and many came to see displays Saturday night. Some of those items were missing, due to a space conflict with Phantasia's equipment, but Eric did manage to still leave out 1 toilet and a sink. A popcorn tank was also on display stage right.

In the week's ahead, we may be raising the curtain on a beautiful pick-up truck cap now in hiding behind the screen. We're also trying to convince Eric to bring out some old theatre seat cushions to display in the front lobby for people to gaze at as they walk in!

WILL ROCKY LIVE AGAIN?

A sequel to "THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW" is on its way! Richard O'Brien tells us that filming will begin sometime around January 1980. Rumor has it that the sequel will take up where the first "Rocky" left off, and that most of the "original" cast will be in it!!

LAST WEEK at MBC
